Excerpt: . . . that, unless I was met with the respect which was my due, I should look out for another firm of solicitors with better manners. And after that we got on together more pleasantly. Yet it was a long time before we could complete our chain of evidence, and during that time events did not stand still. For Mr. Godfrey hurried down as soon as he could to Upton (where, no doubt, his uncle was delighted to welcome him), and the very first time that he and Miss Phyllis found themselves alone the cloud that had arisen between them was dispelled. Our dear young lady was able to convince him that the management of a large property was a thing for which she had neither taste nor capacity; and so disregarding their uncles opposition, they behaved with the impetuosity natural to their age, and determined...
