The commission shall in case of failure of the railroad company or street-railway company concerned to agree among themselves upon the division of the cost of construction, maintenance, and operation of the connections thus provided for, or the allowance to be made for the interchange of service, or the apportionment of any joint rate, ascertain, and by order prescribe and fix, the equitable and just apportionment and division of the same. Sec. 31. Continuous transmission of telegraph or cable messages.--In the case of a telegraph or cable company the commission may, whenever it may determine it to be necessary or proper for the best service of the public so to do, after hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint: (a) Require any such company to permit another to connect its lines with the lines of such first-named company; (b) interchangeably to receive dispatches from and for each other; (c) on payment of its usual charges, as established by the rates and regulations of such companies and approved by...
